Ivy Tech Community College of Indiana awards more Associates degrees annually than any other two-year institution in the U.S.

The International School of Indiana (ISI) was the first school in Indiana to be authorized by the International Baccalaureate (IB) Organization to offer all three IB programs, and only the second school in the entire Midwest to achieve this distinction. ISI is the 14th school in the United States to be authorized for all three programs. An additional nine public high schools in the region offer an IB diploma.

The Indianapolis Region is home to 63 charter schools and 15 magnet schools.

In 2020, based on SAT and ACT test scores, college readiness, graduation rates and teacher quality, Niche awarded A+ scores to Carmel-Clay, Zionsville, Hamilton Southeastern, Brownsburg, Plainfield and Avon school systems.
